

Who's the One? You tell us!

Use the template on the right to depict what “the Commons” means to you or someone you think is worth celebrating as a hero and your artwork could be on a limited edition of real money circulating through the area.

Place your main subject matter inside the hexagon and feel free to use the rest of the areas outlined to create whatever you can imagine. Every One Has Value means each person has something valuable to offer us all. Thanks for participating.

See reverse for more details.

Ithacash Art Contest

We think that the real celebrities of Tompkins County are the every-day people who live, work, and shop in the area... the people who put their energy, time, and commitment into the community to make it a better place for everyone.

With the template on the front, draw, paint, sketch, or otherwise create an image depicting “the Commons” and/or “the Commoner” and enter to win Ithacash prizes and your chance to have your artwork selected for a limited collectors series of the One Ithaca Dollar bill. Pretty much anything goes, but we’ll pick the ideas and final creations that best represent these concepts as the winners.

You can create an entry by making art on this piece of paper, or you can create a larger piece for submission physically or digitally. All art submitted will be reviewed by a jury of people from the community, and all artwork must be original with full rights released for its use in order to be considered.

DEADLINE is Friday, October 16, 2015 (8:00 pm).

Please read the contest rules and our submission guidelines on our website at:
